

Ten idioms with angielskipodrodze.pl

Instruction: Read the example sentences. Then match the idioms in the box with their definitions.

We still have two hours of driving. If you want to kill time, just do the crossword or chat with someone.

She's a tough cookie. She's on a straight way to get the position and these minor difficulties won't stop her from getting it.

You could see the excitement in his eyes and hear it in his voice! He was over the moon about the news.

I've done everything I could about it. Now the ball is in your court. But before you make any decision, make sure it won't hurt anyone.

I told her not to send the email, but she wouldn't listen. Now she's in hot water and must face it.

You cannot work 24 hours a day! All you've been doing is burning the candle at both ends. No wonder you are stressed out and exhausted. If I were you, I would quit.

The attempt to become an artist was just chasing rainbows. Now I know I am not talented enough to become a good painter.

When I was a student I didn't have much money, so I lived from hand to mouth until I graduated and got my first job.

I must go to the grocery store and you should go for a walk, so let's kill two birds with one stone by going together.

Stop pulling the wool over my eyes and tell me the truth. I need to know his response.

kill time	be over the moon	the ball is in your court	live from hand to mouth
chase rainbows	burn the candle at both ends	pull the wool over someone's eyes
be a tough cookie	kill two birds with one stone	be in hot water do something, which is usually not very exciting, while you are waiting for time to pass -

be a determined person who usually succeeds even in difficult situations -

be very pleased/excited/happy -

it is your turn now to take a decision or do something about a certain situation - be in a dangerous or difficult situation when you are likely to be punished - work extremely hard and stay up late at night which may ruin your health -

try to achieve something which is not possible - have just enough money to survive and not be able to afford anything extra - achieve two goals in a single action - fool or deceive someone -